Phoenix considers allowing fewer parking spaces for apartments in push for public transit

Phoenix plans to sharply reduce the minimum number of parking spaces it requires apartment developers to build in an effort to improve housing affordability and the environment. The most significant changes would apply to apartments in downtown and midtown near light rail.

Residents, who are among the first to weigh in on the policy, by and large oppose the change. But their opposition is likely not a barometer for the ultimate decision-makers: Phoenix City Council. Read more

Lower Rio Grande Valley Development Council gets $2.3M for transit funding

Transit agencies in Brownsville, Harlingen, South Padre Island and the Lower Rio Grande Valley Development Council are among the recipients of $95.1 million in state and federal funds being distributed by the Texas

Transportation Commission, which governs the Texas Department of Transportation.

TxDOT announced the news July 12, and said the money is going to 79 rural and small urban public transportation and planning agencies across the state "to operate and maintain a critical network of integrated mobility services."
